— AROUND THE RANCH —

Things are always full steam ahead this time of year at Millar Angus! The calving barn is open for business and the heavies are sorted off. The bulls got their haircuts and pictures and videos are just around the corner. Throw in the day-to-day chores and getting ready for a bull sale...let's just say, we don't get bored this time of year!

As always, the year flew by! Summer never seems long enough, but we sure pack it as full as we can! To kick things off, Kobi and I took a school trip to Washington DC and New York City. We had a great time and priceless memories were made! We spent our fair share of time on the rodeo trail with both kids running to Junior High, High School, jackpots and 4H Rodeos. Busy time, but wouldn't trade it for anything! Before we knew it, Kobi was headed off to her first day of high school with a volleyball bag around her shoulder and Ryle logged into his computer to finish his senior year.

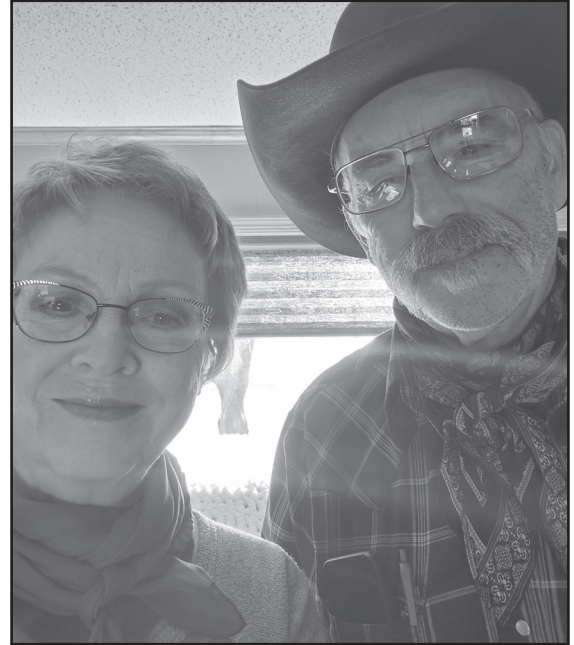

Here's to wishing everyone a safe and happy 2025! Stop by if you're in the area...we always love to visit!

Focusing on the Customer:
Price Ranch
Mud Butte, SD

"We like the Millar Angus genetics for the bulls easy temperament and fast growth."

A little bit about the Price Ranch: Here at the Price Ranch we raise Angus cattle on hard pan and cactus. Raising Black Angus cattle has been the heart of our operation. In the fall we sell steers. We retain the heifers we raise to keep our herd built up.

Millar Angus genetics on the Price Ranch: We like the Millar Angus genetics for the bulls easy temperament and fast growth. The bulls contribute to low birth rates which makes for great calving ease. We like the fact that they produce good calves that grow fast and are hardy.

Our calves meet market demand when it comes to selling time. The bulls produce females that become good mothers with valuable maternal traits for heifer replacements. The efficiency of the Millar Angus genetics make our straight Angus breeding operation successful.

Millar Angus has a High School Graduate!

Many of you parents have been through it. You bring your little one home from the hospital, what feels like a couple years flies by and next thing you know you're booking senior pictures! On one hand, it can feel a little sad, where did these years go? But when stepping back and looking at the big picture, what an exciting time in a young person's life!

School has never been on Ryle's short list of favorite things to do. As a matter of fact, when he was in the first grade he informed me...“Mom, I think I'm done with school. I just want to stay home, drink coffee and read farming magazines with dad”...true story! While he didn't get his way on that request, he did make it through to his senior year and was able to graduate early at semester. Now he can look forward to walking across that stage for his diploma and graduation party in May.

From the time Ryle was a little guy, he has known what he's wanted to do and it has never waivered...he wants to ranch. After considering all the options (and politely telling his dad and I he has zero desire to go the traditional college route) ole' Jr. Boss as the guys often call him, has decided to stay put and work alongside us while continuing to grow his own sheep and cow herd. He will continue with his small square hay business and there has even been some talk about getting a CDL and learning how to ultrasound cattle. Ryle, you've got a good head on our shoulders and your work ethic is unbelievable...there's no doubt you're going to do great things!

I get a kick out of listening to Jon and Ryle visit. The other day they were spouting off cow numbers, pedigrees and bloodlines like it was nothing. It just makes me smile. I know one thing for sure, both my guys are pursuing their passion and the future of Millar Angus is in great hands!
